OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The best Weekly Agricultural and Family Newspaper we ever saw is the RURAL NEW YORKER. It has seven Editors, all men of reputation, besides numerous regular contributors, scattered all over the country.—Kentucky Statesman.

THE RURAL is the most elegantly printed, ably edited, widely circulated and heartily welcomed paper, as a whole, which now finds its way among the people.—West Branch (Pa.) Bulletin.

THE RURAL NEW YORKER is full of information on all subjects, while the literary department is especially interesting. It is the most popular family paper in the States.—N. Y. Daily Star.

The best agricultural weekly in the country is MOORE'S RURAL NEW YORKER, published in this city.—American Odd Fellow.

MOORE'S RURAL NEW YORKER is decidedly the best newspaper in America.—Texas Daily Ranchero.

MOORE'S RURAL NEW YORKER.—Through the past year our readers have been, from time to time, vastly benefited we doubt not, by reason of the many extracts we have published from this truly able Agricultural weekly paper. It is not too much to say that it is the best paper of its class in all the land. At every fireside in Lincoln county we should be glad to know it would go every week in 1870.—Yes, in every county of our State, we should feel gratified to see many hearths and homes gladdened by its ever useful presence. Our people would be wiser and better for it.—Dispatch, Stanford, Ky.

THE RURAL NEW YORKER has won a position where it need not ask commendation, and need not fear criticism. It has no equal in its own department in the country.—Standard, Chicago.

THE RURAL opens rich like a honey-comb, having sweets in every cell.—New England Farmer. d-2t
